DECISION

FOF/167359

[REDACTED] Respondent

PRELIMINARY RECITALS

Pursuant to a petition filed July 17, 2015, under Wis. Admin. Code §HA 3.03, and see, 7 C.F.R. § 273.16, to review a decision by the Milwaukee Enrollment Services to disqualify [REDACTED] from receiving FoodShare benefits (FS) for a period of one year, a hearing was held on September 03, 2015, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The issue for determination is whether the respondent committed an Intentional Program Violation (IPV).

There appeared at that time and place the following persons:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) received FoodShare benefits from June 5, 2014, through December 5, 2014. (Exhibit 6)

2. On January 15, 2013 and again on December 3, 2013, Milwaukee Enrollment Services (the agency) sent the Respondent an Eligibility and Benefits Book that advised him of the penalties for providing false information, including disqualification from the FoodShare program. (Exhibits 14 and 15)
3. On July 7, 2014, the Respondent called the agency to complete his FoodShare renewal. At that time he indicated that he was a Wisconsin resident. The Respondent electronically/telephonically signed the application, indicating that the information was correct and complete, and that he understood the penalties for giving false information or breaking the rules. (Exhibits 7 and 8)
4. When accepting telephonic signatures, agency workers are required to read a standard penalty warning, advising applicants that they can be disqualified from the FoodShare program for providing false information or otherwise breaking the rules. ((Testimony of Ms. Hazley; Exhibit 16)
5. In May 2014, the Respondent began working for a staffing company in Michigan. He worked for that staffing company through March 2015. The Respondent reported an address at [REDACTED] in South Bend, Indiana to his employer. (Exhibit 10)
6. In May 2014, the [REDACTED] credit reporting agency, received an updated address for the Respondent, on a different street in South Bend, Indiana. (Exhibit 12)
7. In August 2014, Indiana voter registration listed the Respondent at [REDACTED] in South Bend. (Exhibit 11)
8. The Respondent appears to have reported a [REDACTED] address to Wisconsin child support enforcement in September 2014. (Exhibit 13)
9. From July 2014 through December 2014, the Respondent's EBT card usage was almost exclusively in South Bend, Indiana with about three transactions in Michigan. (Exhibit 18)
10. On July 21, 2015, Milwaukee Enrollment Services sent the Respondent an Administrative Disqualification Hearing Notice, indicating that between July 2014 and December 2014, the Respondent provided false information about his residence. (Exhibit 2)

DISCUSSION

Respondent's Non-appearance

The Respondent did not appear for this hearing. This circumstance is governed by the regulation in 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(4), which states in part:

If the household member or its representative cannot be located or fails to appear at a hearing initiated by the State agency without good cause, the hearing shall be conducted without the household member being represented. Even though the household member is not represented, the hearing official is required to carefully consider the evidence and determine if intentional Program violation was committed based on clear and convincing evidence. If the household member is found to have committed an intentional program violation but a hearing official later determines that the household member or representative had good cause for not appearing, the previous decision shall no longer remain valid and the State agency shall conduct a new hearing. The hearing official who originally ruled on the case may conduct a new hearing. In instances where the good cause for failure to appear is based upon a showing of nonreceipt of the hearing notice, the household member has 30 days after the date of the written notice of the hearing decision to claim good cause for failure to appear. In all other instances, the household member has 10 days from the date of the scheduled hearing to present reasons indicating a good cause for failure to appear. A hearing official must enter the good cause decision into the record.

Emphasis added

The hearing in this case took place on September 3, 2015. The Respondent was advised of the date and time of the hearing, in an Administrative Disqualification Hearing Notice that was sent to him at addresses in Milwaukee, Wisconsin and [REDACTED], Southbend, Indiana. The Respondent was also advised that he could appear by phone and to contact the agency or the Division of Hearings and Appeals, if he so desired.

Ms. Hazley testified that there is no record of any returned mail. The Respondent did not contact the Division of Hearings and Appeals and he did not contact the agency to request to appear by phone. The Respondent did not appear at the hearing and the Respondent did not contact the Division of Hearings and Appeals within 10 days to explain his failure to appear. As such, it is found that the Respondent did not have good cause for his non-appearance.

What is an Intentional Program Violation?

7 C.F.R. §273.16(c) states that Intentional Program Violations “shall consist of having intentionally: 1) Made a false or misleading statement or misrepresented facts; or 2) Committed an act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any State statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of coupons, authorization card or any other reusable documents used as part of an automated delivery system (access device).”

The Department’s written policy restates federal law, below:

3.14.1 IPV Disqualification

7 CFR 273.16

A person commits an Intentional Program Violation (IPV) when s/he intentionally:

1. makes a false or misleading statement, or misrepresents, conceals or withholds facts; or
2. commits any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, the Food Stamp Program Regulations, or any Wisconsin statute for the purpose of using, presenting, transferring, acquiring, receiving, possessing or trafficking of FoodShare benefits or QUEST cards.

An IPV may be determined by the following means:

1. Federal, state, or local court order,
2. Administrative Disqualification Hearing (ADH) decision,
3. Pre-charge or pretrial diversion agreement initiated by a local district attorney and signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements, or
4. Waiver of the right to an ADH signed by the FoodShare recipient in accordance with federal requirements.

FoodShare Wisconsin Handbook, §3.14.1.

The agency may disqualify only the individual who either has been found to have committed the IPV or has signed a waiver or consent agreement, and not the entire household. If disqualified, an individual will be ineligible to participate in the FS program for one year for the first violation, two years for the second violation, and permanently for the third violation. However, any remaining household members must agree to make restitution within 30 days of the date of mailing a written demand letter, or their monthly allotment will be reduced. 7 C.F.R. §273.16(b).

What is the Agency’s burden of Proof?

In order for the agency to establish that a FoodShare recipient has committed an IPV, it has the burden to prove two separate elements by clear and convincing evidence. The recipient must have: 1) committed; and 2) intended to commit an intentional program violation per 7 C.F.R. §273.16(e)(6).

"Clear and convincing evidence" is an intermediate standard of proof which is more than the "preponderance of the evidence"(a.k.a. “more likely than not”) used in most civil cases and less than the "beyond a reasonable doubt" standard used in criminal cases.

In Kuehn v. Kuehn, 11 Wis.2d 15, 26 (1959), the court held that:

Defined in terms of quantity of proof, reasonable certitude or reasonable certainty in ordinary civil cases may be attained by or be based on a mere or fair preponderance of the evidence. Such certainty need not necessarily exclude the probability that the contrary conclusion may be true. In fraud cases it has been stated the preponderance of the evidence should be clear and satisfactory to indicate or sustain a greater degree of certitude. Such degree of certitude has also been defined as being produced by clear, satisfactory, and convincing evidence. Such evidence, however, need not eliminate a reasonable doubt that the alternative or opposite conclusion may be true. In criminal cases, while not normally stated in terms of preponderance, the necessary certitude is universally stated as being beyond a reasonable doubt.

Wisconsin Jury Instruction – Civil 205 is also instructive. It provides:

Clear, satisfactory and convincing evidence is evidence which when weighed against that opposed to it clearly has more convincing power. It is evidence which satisfies and convinces you that “yes” should be the answer because of its greater weight and clear convincing power. “Reasonable certainty” means that you are persuaded based upon a rational consideration of the evidence. Absolute certainty is not required, but a guess is not enough to meet the burden of proof. This burden of proof is known as the “middle burden.” The evidence required to meet this burden of proof must be more convincing than merely the greater weight of the credible evidence but may be less than beyond a reasonable doubt.

Further, the McCormick treatise states that “it has been persuasively suggested that [the clear and convincing evidence standard of proof] could be more simply and intelligibly translated to the jury if they were instructed that they must be persuaded that the truth of the contention is highly probable.” 2 McCormick on Evidence § 340 (John W. Strong gen. ed., 4th ed. 1992).

Thus, in order to find that an IPV was committed, the trier of fact must derive from the evidence, a firm conviction as to the existence of each of the two elements even though there may exist a reasonable doubt that the elements have been shown.

The Merits of the Agency’s Case

In the case at hand, the agency asserts that the Respondent violated the rules of the FoodShare Program by lying about his residence between July 2014 and December 2014.

“A household shall live in the State in which it files an application for participation” in the food stamp program. 7 CFR §273.3(a)

It is clear from the case comments and the July 2014 renewal, that that the Respondent reported living in Wisconsin and that he received FoodShare benefits based, in part, upon that information. However, the Respondent’s EBT card was used almost exclusively in Indiana during the time in question. Further, the Respondent told his employer that his residence was in Indiana.

Based upon the foregoing, it is found that the Respondent provided false information by claiming to be a Wisconsin resident when, in fact, he lived in Indiana.

There is a general rule that a person is presumed to know and intend the probable and natural consequences of his or her own voluntary words or acts. See John F. Jelke Co. v. Beck, 208 Wis. 650 (1932); 31A C.J.S. Evidence §131. Intention is a subjective state of mind to be determined upon all the facts. Lecus v. American Mut. Ins. Co. of Boston, 81 Wis.2d 183 (1977). There is nothing in the record to rebut the presumption that the Respondent intentionally lied about his residence, in order to obtain FoodShare benefits that he was not entitled to receive. On the contrary, the Respondent received the eligibility and benefits booklets that warned him about the consequences of providing false information and he was likely warned again when he completed his renewal in July 2014, but he went ahead and lied about his residence, anyway.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Contrary to 7 CFR §273.3(a) and 7 CFR 273.16, the Respondent committed an intentional program violation between April 2014 and October 2014, by providing false information about his residence in order to obtain FoodShare benefits that he was not entitled to receive in Wisconsin. This is the first such violation.

THEREFORE, it is

ORDERED

That the agency's determination is sustained, and that the agency may make a finding that the Respondent committed a first IPV of the FoodShare program and disqualify the Respondent from the program for one year, effective the first month following the date of receipt of this decision.

REQUEST FOR A REHEARING ON GROUNDS OF GOOD CAUSE FOR FAILURE TO APPEAR

In instances where the good cause for failure to appear is based upon a showing of non-receipt of the hearing notice, the respondent has 30 days after the date of the written notice of the hearing decision to claim good cause for failure to appear. See 7 C.F.R. sec. 273.16(e)(4). Such a claim should be made in writing to the Division of Hearings and Appeals, P.O. Box 7875, Madison, WI 53707-7875.
